THE BOOK

Being Afrikan – Rediscovering the Traditional Unhu-Ubuntu-Botho Pathways of Being Human – This book is the first published conversational piece of renowned Zimbabwean academic author Prof. Mandivamba Rukuni. He speaks about his personal journey of rediscovering the traditional way of life according to the Ubuntu philosophy, which is an Afrika-wide approach, known as Unhu in Shona and Botho in Sotho languages. It makes fascinating reading as he shares age-old Afrikan wisdom on how to live life in a modern world. This book will become a Classic on the bookshelves of Afrikans of all origins, as well as by the Afrikan diaspora worldwide.

THE AUTHOR

Professor Mandivamba Rukuni – is a world-renowned Agricultural Economist who was the youngest Dean of the Faculty of Agriculture at the University of Zimbabwe in Harare. He chaired President Robert Mugabe’s Land Commission. He has been consulting to the World Bank and other international institutions. Currently, he is the Regional Director of the American W. K. Kellogg Foundation. His passion lies in empowering rural communities to develop themselves, drawing on their cultural heritage and adapting it to our modern context.

Please join us in welcoming this remarkable author to the Leadership Center.
